CLIENT TESTIMONIAL

“ Jon Colby has presented to two different audiences for my company and both times he received RAVE reviews. The presentations were grounded in sound business principles and strategies while maintaining an energy-infused, awesome level of engagement and interactivity. The audience was up on their feet, interacting with each other all while they were absorbing the solid strategic messaging about agility and communication. Jon did an excellent job of investigating what we wanted to accomplish and infusing our culture into his event. ”

Most Popular Program:

The Power of "Yes, and..."

The basic rules of improv deal with finding agreement, listening, working together toward a goal, making choices, and celebrating those choices. These are also vital skills to have in the workplace and in every other part of life. This interactive keynote will give participants actionable takeaways that they can put to use immediately.
